Zoning Code Evaluation Plan

I. Survey Element:

A survey will be provided as indicated below for one full year following adoption of the new code.

- A. A survey will be formatted similar to the survey conducted the outset of the rewrite (see Attachment B).
- B. Staff will mail and/or e-mail a survey to each applicant, party of record, and professional that is involved in any application submitted to the planning department.
- C. The survey will be provided at the beginning of application review to be completed after review is complete.
- D. The survey will also be provided to staff that is involved in day-to-day administration of the code.

II. Issues Identification Element:

Staff will maintain an ongoing list of any code conflicts or unanticipated issues that arise through application of the new code.

III. In-Depth Review Element:

Applicants and staff will use two or three project applications to test the code in-depth.

- A. Staff will seek two or three applicant-volunteers to test the new zoning code. Of the projects used, one will be a single-family residential, one will be in an urban center, and one will be unrestricted, but possibly a public project. If there is an interested neighborhood group, that group will also be part of this test run element.
- B. Staff, the applicant, and the neighborhood group will each keep a detailed log of code issues. Issues could include difficult finding or interpreting regulations, or missing or contradictory regulations.
- C. Staff will offer to meet with participants to discuss the issues identified and gain a better understanding of issues and possible alternatives or solutions.

EXHIBIT 2

D. Identified issues will be reported per the Reporting Element, described below.

IV. Reporting Element:

- A. Staff will provide quarterly reports to the Council Planning and Public Works Committee regarding survey results and items identified on the "issues identification list".
- B. Staff will provide the Council and Planning Commission written and verbal status reports every six months. Other parties interested may also be informed via written status report.
- C. After one year of administering the new code, completing the surveys and tracking issues, staff will prepare a work program, if necessary, to bring any necessary Development Guide Amendments through Planning Commission.
- D. The adopting ordinance approving the new zoning code will include provisions for the reporting elements noted above.

Zoning Code Customer Survey

Dear Stakeholder,

The City of Redmond recently completed a multi-year effort to rewrite its zoning code. A rewrite was needed to achieve greater clarity, conciseness, and usability, while maintaining the goals and vision the City has adopted in its Comprehensive Plan. For more information on this project, please visit the project home page at www.redmond.gov/rcdrewrite.

Staff is now beginning the implementation phase of this project, which consists of using the new zoning code and determining where tweaks need to be made to achieve code rewrite objectives.

Staff would like to know how you think the new zoning code complies with the adopted project principles. Please tell us what you think of the new code by completing the survey below. The survey takes approximately 5 minutes to complete.

Please contact Lynda Aparicio if you have any questions.
